Pricescope.com

Industry: Distribution & Retail

This project's challenge was to develop a truly scalable and powerful resource with the capacity to handle extensive diamonds' database and multiple website visitors.

ABTO Software successfully developed a scalable independent diamond and jewelry community resource. This website is initially designed to assist consumers to make a weighted decision prior to buying a diamond. Currently prices of over 350,000 diamonds can be compared online. The website boasts 50,000 registered users and over 350,000 unique visitors per month.

The website diamonds database is truly user-friendly and easy-to-use. It consists of publicly available diamond pricing information and advertised specials. The only thing that a customer needs to do is to specify the criteria, print a price table and choose the dealer or jeweler who offers the best conditions.

In case the dealer is located far away, a customer can use hisher search results with a local jeweler as a price negotiation tool. The search function was developed in order to help consumers compare prices from competing vendors.

A blog was also embedded into the website structure. It allows shoppers to discuss a range of topics like buying diamonds online or shopping experiences at Tiffany, Cartier, and local jewelers, etc.

A highly convenient, functionally rich website was developed by our specialists for the pharmaceutical domain. The website possesses clear and accurate structure which is easy to navigate and visually attractive.

Our specialists elaborated template for Joomla CMS and provided the website with training modules (quizzes). When a person successfully passes a certain test he/she can view the immediate results and even download the appropriate certificate. The date and personal data of the person passing the test are automatically inserted into the certificate.

An extremely convenient and functional website dedicated to search and buying health insurances was successfully improved by ABTO bright specialists for our US customer. The two major enhancements are:

- search modules were added;
- the website search engine was integrated with the third party search modules.

A visitor can enter the ZIP code and choose other appropriate criteria, including employment, status and annual income. The system processes these data and offers a list of insurance companies in this person's region.

We've also developed a convenient filter which embraces the following options: Monthly Cost, Deductible, Best Sellers, Copay, Coinsurance, Plan Type. The website also includes a lot of useful insurance related content: statistical insurance data by states, counties, cities; types of health insurance, legislation, etc.

Technologies used: Google Spreadsheets API, jQuery, MySQL, PHP

With ABTO Software you will get high-quality and effective PHP web development services at affordable cost.
